“ I can foresee some kind of network shutdown causing massive financial eruption to the banking system or Stock Exchange which will cause conflict and pressure within their environment. ”

open to suggestion. She does well when working within groups or organisations. This lady does not like to have her ankles shackled or her hands tied, having freedom and independence in everything she does is important to her. Social relationships are a must, but this may even cause misunderstandings because of her level headedness, and the way she articulates in her cool manner. She can be seen as selfish and very rarely will do anything she doesn't want to do. Because of her intellectual pride, the karmic energy that she has to pass through can sometimes make her give up and cause her to be aloof, withdrawing from situations and spending time alone. To overcome these tendencies she may find herself turning to some form of spirituality or religion that can give her comfort in her time of need.

What can we expect for Michelle in the next coming months?

Born in the year of Rabbit she is calm and peaceful in the way she leads her life. Through being instinctively discreet and kind in addition to being elaborate and perceptive, female Rabbits are in many ways the perfect lady. Rabbits will go a long way to avoid a disagreement although, when their minds are made up, they are capable of adapting to the circumstances and taking quick action. Beneath her courteous exterior beats a romantic heart although her nervousness and feelings of insecurity do not make life easy in this respect. For the next coming months we can expect perfection, ultimate change, completion, success and great harmony, because she has learnt so many lessons, her dreams are likely to spill over and spread into great success.

A problem that could arise for Michelle is shown by the colours grey and blue that are shown very strongly in her aura. Usually when these colours appear energetically in a reading there is an indication of someone close that has concerns with health issues. This is going to test her patience, support and time. Overall her commitments to her roles as a mother and support to her husband will run smoothly. As President Obama will take a turning point in his presidency, two major decisions are coming up for him, one caused by the current economic crisis and the other will be to do with some form of attempt or assassination to the good work that he is doing. I can foresee some kind of network shutdown causing massive financial eruption to the banking system or Stock Exchange which will cause conflict and pressure within their environment.

Mind, Body & Soul

There will be a need for space, there will be a need for family time, and the feeling of wanting to step out from the public eye. Really this is an impossible situation so pressure is on, her emotions will be tested causing some strain to her marriage. Health wise the lower back is delicate but providing she can create some 'me time', all will go well for her in mind body and soul. Children will bring her much pleasure, music is also a love for her and one of her daughters will bring her great joy through creativity and artistic endeavours.

What can we expect for romance?

The romantic time that she spends with her husband is so important to her, and this will become more evident as they take on their commitments to travel to Europe and the Far East. Their partnership will go from strength to strength and their bond will be unbreakable.
